

Clontech – Your Partner of Choice for Custom Services

Let us provide the expertise you need to complete your research.

Clontech is a leading developer of cutting-edge tools for life science research. Our products enable both the identification and the functional analysis of genes and their products. While we have an extensive range of products available for order, we do recognize that there are times when your needs cannot be met by an off-the-shelf product—you need something special! For those times, our custom services group can provide its special expertise, and an extra pair of hands, to your laboratory.
